Policy brief

Union's observations on working conditions of riders

Department of labor and employment (DOLE)

- Support the development of a proper Safety Plan within the Food Tiger company by requiring the board and its managers to attend DOLE's Basic Occupational Safety and Health training
- Develop a section on DOLE website specialized into collecting delivery rider complaints, fostering systemic data collection on riders' working conditions (with a strong anonymity component). Partnering with the local Graduate School of Law (San Beda University) would provide pedagogical materials on one end, and prove DOLE's political relevance on the other.
- Build with our union a law proposal for decent income per delivery (all year along) with increased payments during flooding season (less delivery per day due to time delivery) and restrict Food Tiger's abilities to put delivery riders on the side due to bad reviews (mainly due to weather and flooding events).
- Financial fines should be implemented against Food Tiger for each worker without contracts and unfairly paid (following our law proposal). This money will reach an Emergency Assistance Fund responsible to pay health care for delivery riders. It would be co-managed by DOLE and our union, with the highest transparency to avoid any form of corruption.
- Require by our law proposal for the traffic management of the city (MMDA) to provide live data on weather and flooding to be shared with Food Tiger. Food Tiger informatic services is to provide better paths and expend the delivery time when necessarily shown by these live data.
- Grant at least two full time workers dedicated to coordinate such an improved calculator, with the aim of after developing a reliable prototype, delivery companies would be legally forced by law to use it.

Traffic management of the city (MMDA)

- Grant at least one full time worker dedicated to partnering with the FoodTiger platform in order to build a fairer calculator for delivery paths.
