TC 2 - MSM Assignment 2_ Communication Plan outline

Step1: Name of the TC, Assign Roles and Responsibilities

Name

Battling Global Giants Locally (B.G.G.L)

Members

Members	based in	academic background	Roles*
Gyeong Park (G)	Japan (Korean)	IT and commerce	Writing (coordinate the writing process of the report)
Louise Auger	France (French)	agronomy	Leadership (coordinate planning activities)
Beatrice Augusta Gentile (Bea)	Belgium (Italian)	Communication and Society	Design (coordinate the creative process of producing materials for the plan)
Georgia Selpesi (Gina)	Sweden (Greek)	economics	Communication (internal communication, scheduling and interaction with teachers)
collective duties: all members (brainstorming, decision-making, assuring active engagement on Padlet and Canvas)

Logo

>>>New version

Step2: Situation Analysis

Each TC must simulate a situation analysis to build a better understanding of the crisis landscape and the organisation's challenges. Because this is a fictional case, the TC can choose the context (e.g. an actual society or an invented one). Address the items below (and feel free to add others):

- Describe, in detail, the problem that affected the organisation and the consequences to their operations.
- Describe, in detail, the communication environment - including internal and external factors - that might impact the organisation's operations and messaging.

City contexts (focused on our study case)

Social conditions of Manila

Metro Manila is a densely populated urban region with large economic inequalities and a significant informal labour sector. Many people rely on flexible and informal work because secure employment opportunities are not equally available to everyone. Food-delivery riders are an important part of everyday urban life because they connect customers, restaurants and local businesses.

-> Group discussion comments: working social conditions in general, no need to add anything

Economic conditions

Platform work offers a relatively accessible way for people to earn income. However, the cost of living, fuel, mobile data and motorcycle maintenance can make it difficult for riders to earn a stable income. Because riders are usually paid per delivery, they may need to work long hours to earn enough money for themselves and their families.

-> Group discussion comments: add some numbers (with references), paid per hour, metro tickets, daily expenses, how many people work in the field or food delivery an estimate)

Weather and infrastructure conditions

Metro Manila experiences extreme heat, heavy rain and flooding. Even relatively short periods of heavy rain can flood roads and disrupt traffic. For delivery riders, this means longer travel times, poor visibility, unsafe road conditions and a higher risk of accidents. These conditions make fast delivery difficult, but riders may still feel pressured to continue working because they depend on daily income.

Two group members have also visited Manila and experienced how quickly heavy rain caused flooding in the streets. During the visit, a Grab rider arrived at the hotel completely wet after delivering food in difficult weather conditions. This experience made the group consider the time pressure and safety risks faced by delivery workers.

->Group discussion comments: should mention the time of the year, be a bit more specific, not every neighbour has the same problem. Let's mention the rainy season also The weather is unpredictable all year round.

Food delivery platform contexts

- quick description of main platforms: GrabFood, Foodpanda ⇒ we'll most likely use a fictional international food-delivery company
- delivery workers' working conditions

GrabFood and Foodpanda are two well-known food-delivery platforms in Metro Manila. Customers use their mobile apps to order food from restaurants. Riders pick up the food and deliver it to customers by motorcycle or bicycle.

Three Main Problems Faced by Workers

1. Low and Unstable Pay
    - Workers are paid for each delivery.
    - Their income can change depending on demand, ratings and incentives.
    - Fuel, mobile data and motorcycle maintenance reduce their real income.
2. Weak Social and Employment Protection
    - Workers are often treated as independent partners rather than employees.
    - They may have limited access to minimum wages, paid leave, health insurance and social protection.
    - Their accounts may be suspended with limited explanation or support.
3. Dangerous Working Conditions
    - Workers must deliver during extreme heat, heavy rain and flooding.
    - Bad weather and traffic increase the risk of accidents.
    - Delivery-time pressure may encourage workers to continue working in unsafe conditions.

-> Group discussion comments: Let's add some statistical research data.

Our organization

- what is our organization (union of workers? an NGO?)
- What's our positionality and legitimacy to talk about the case?
- How can an union of workers have the time and money to launch a campaign?
    - Describe, in detail, the problem that affected the organisation and the consequences to their operations.

Our organization (Fictional union in the real city)

1. United Delivery Riders of Metro Manila (UDRMM)
    - UDRMM is a fictional worker-led union for food-delivery riders in Metro Manila.
    - It represents riders from different delivery platforms.
    - It was created by riders.

2. Position and legitimacy
    - UDRMM supports the rights and interests of delivery riders.
    - It is not a neutral organisation because it clearly speaks for workers.
    - Its members understand low pay, long working hours, dangerous weather and account suspension from their own experience.
3. Time and money for the campaign
    - UDRMM does not have a large budget.
    - It receives support from a national labour group and a local labour-rights NGO.
    - These groups provide legal advice, volunteer support, meeting spaces and small campaign funding.
    - UDRMM uses Facebook, Messenger and WhatsApp to communicate with riders quickly and at low cost.
    - Riders can share their own stories, photos and videos

-> Group discussion comments: union is a great idea, better than an NGO. so we have a limited budget and time. income from union subscription (small annual subscription fees). many riders so enough to launch the campaign. meets up regularly, announced on Facebook, Messenger and WhatsApp. + actual regular meet up(in person)

The problem that affected the organisation and the consequences to their operations

1. The problem (a Fictional organization, Fictional delivery company in the real city)
    - In this fictional case, an international food-delivery company called FoodTiger operates in Metro Manila.
    - During the rainy season, FoodTiger lowers the payment for each delivery.
    - It also sets delivery-time targets.
2. Consequences for riders
    - Riders earn less money and may need to work longer hours.
    - They feel pressure to deliver food during heavy rain and flooding.
    - They worry about low ratings, fewer orders or account suspension if they do not meet delivery targets.
3. Consequences for UDRMM
    - The United Delivery Riders of Metro Manila (UDRMM) receives many complaints from riders.
    - FoodTiger says that better conditions may increase costs and force the company to reduce its operations.
    - Therefore, UDRMM must explain that it is asking for fair pay and safe work, not for FoodTiger to leave Metro Manila.

-> Group discussion comments: Even during the rainy season, they have the same delivery time target as in the dry season. which is impossible due to weather conditions. Customers can complain to the platform, put bad reviews on riders, and in the end maybe they lose deliveries. Drivers also use more time and fuel to deliver during the rainy season due to the flooded street + traffic issues

-> Group discussion comments 2: describe the company in terms of market share? maybe it will help to legitimize our main message (like if they have 40% of margins, they could decrease it to give it to riders)

The communication environment - including internal and external factors - that might impact the organisation's operations and messaging

The communication environment – internal and external factors

1. Internal factors
    - UDRMM members work in different places and at different times.
    - It is difficult for the union to meet all riders face to face.
    - Some riders are afraid to speak publicly because they may lose income or face account suspension.
    - UDRMM has a small budget, so it mainly uses Facebook, Messenger and WhatsApp.
    - The union can use the rider's real story.
2. External factors
    - FoodTiger has more money and media resources than the union.
    - The company may say that riders are independent partners and that better conditions will increase food prices and it will reduce the food orders.
    - Social media (Facebook, Messenger, WhatsApp) and news media can help UDRMM reach the public, but they can also spread wrong information.
    - Government agencies and labour-rights groups are important because they can support the union.

Step3: Objectives and Key Messages

Each TC must set clear communication goals and objectives. Address the items below (and feel free to add others):

- Develop and present the objectives of the plan.
- Present and explain 4-5 key messages that are clear, concise and consistent with the organisation's values and objectives.

- Objectives
  - Build public understanding: Help customers understand the unsafe and difficult conditions faced by delivery riders.
  - Support rider participation: Encourage more riders to join UDRMM and share their experiences.
  - Respond to FoodTiger's action: Show that fair pay and safe work do not mean that FoodTiger must leave Metro Manila.
  - Create pressure for negociation: Ask FoodTiger and government agencies to meet with us .
- Key Messages
  - No delivery is worth a rider's safety.
  - Riders need fair and stable pay and it is win-win for everyone.
  - Riders deserve protection and respect.
  - We want talks, not conflict.

-> Group discussion note:

We should already know about the law when talking to government agencies or when we make campaigns

Family members are not a target but can be used as a resource to create content.

maybe we can have a website that would gather all our info, riders can join the union, government can download a proper document about our recommendation, and so on

4.Target Audiences

- Primary audiences
  - FoodTiger delivery riders
  - FoodTiger management ⇒ they need to know the union message
  - FoodTiger customers
- Secondary audiences
  - Restaurants using FoodTiger
  - Government and labour organization?
  - News media?
  - Non-union delivery riders in Metro Manila?

    - Family- friends of riders (philippines culture = family oriented, extra support when we are lack of budget) Getting interviews from family members for the campaign contents

-> Group discussion comments: maybe one of the targets is delivery riders because we need more people to join the union so we have more union members and power. Customers can have a role as FoodTiger would fear a bad reputation and client loss.

5.Communication Channels and Prototype Idea

 barangay= the smallest local community and government unit in the Philippines.*

- Communication Channels
    - Official website (purpose: announcing, credibility)
    - Facebook and Messenger, WhatsApp/Telegram?
    - TikTok: share short videos of riders' real experiences
    - Language: Filipino/Tagalog and English: make messages easy for more people to understand
    - Barangay community pages and local leaders: reach local communities in Metro Manila
    - Local news media: share the campaign with a wider public ⇒ interesting to target government agencies and customers.
    - Radio? Podcast?
- Prototype Idea
    - A Facebook and TikTok campaign poster, short videos and feed posts
    - Campaign title: To be decided
    - Main message: No delivery is worth a rider's safety.
    - Visual: A delivery rider on a flooded Metro Manila street during heavy rain
    - Call to action: Support safe and fair delivery riders.

-> Group discussion comments: ask our teachers for feedback esp communication channels + prototype idea.

Philippines-specific considerations

 barangay= the smallest local community and government unit in the Philippines.*

- Use both Filipino/Tagalog and English in campaign messages.
- Focus on Facebook, Messenger and TikTok because they are widely used in the Philippines.
- Work with barangay community or local leaders to share information.
- Show that safe delivery is not only a rider issue. Customers, restaurants and local communities can support riders together.
- Use rainy-season and flooding images because these are familiar risks for local people who live in Metro Manila.
- Use real rider stories on social media especially as short videos

6.Any Risks

- FoodTiger may suspend riders' accounts or pressure them not to join the campaign.
- Some riders may not join because they cannot lose daily income
- Customers or owner or restaurants may not be interested in supporting riders
- FoodTiger may say that better conditions will increase food prices or reduce orders.
- Wrong information may spread on Facebook, Messenger or TikTok.
- Legal issues?

->Group discussion comments: Maybe some riders cannot even afford to join the union (union member fee). maybe we can say it is crowdfunding campaign (each step is a target)